Washington, D. C.

On a recent sunshiny Washington afternoon, I made a pilgrimage to the Republican National committee headquarters. As I entered the white-pillared portal of the modest little house they have rented on Connecticut avenue, a number of thoughts, which may be omens of good or ill in the coming election, floated into my ken.

The house was once a private home but now it is situated amidst shops and restaurants and looks across the avenue toward a towering apartment house taken over by the Civilian Defense administration.

As I ascended the stairway to the second floor office of Chairman Harrison Spangler, memories - rushed about me and I was transported back to the days when the Republican party was suffering in the slough of its deepest despond. The rooms about me then housed one, of the many trade organizations created by that wonderful and awful National Recovery administration presided over by the late and stormy General Iron Pants Johnson.

And later, as I chatted with Mr. Spangler, I was reminded of another circumstance, gently symbolic of the days when the elephant sulked, impotent and neglected, in his tent -the Republican committee was forced to move some two years ago from Its snappier, modern quarters on Lafayette Square where it could gaze longingly at the White House on the right hand, and not too hopefully at the United States Chamber of Commerce on the other. The reason the committee had to move was because it was only a tenant on Lafayette Square and the CIO (which had tossed a million into the Democratic electioneering fond) was the landlord.

Representatives of all the farm organizations have been invited to attend a meeting in Chicago early next month in order to express their views for possible incorporation in the party platform. They will meet with members of the Republican postwar advisory council's committee on agriculture. Its chairman is Governor Hickenlooper, who succeeded the late Senator Mc-Nary, father of the farm bloc. Agriculture is one of the eight 'problems" listed by the advisory council at its meeting in September, 1942. The others are foreign policy; postwar industry and employment; social welfare; federal administration; finance and currency; labor; agriculture; and international economic problems.

A staff of experts under Dr. Neil Carothers, dean of the school of business of Lehigh university, has been assembled, who assist the council. which hopes to produce timber for the party platform by scientific Chairman Spangler admits that we face a world in which conditions which will affect the election in November are likely to change radically, perhaps before the conventions; certainly before the elections. But he believes that insofar as possible, the various "problems" listed by the advisory committee should be threshed out in as much detail as possible before the convention so that they will not have to be dealt with superficially at the last moment by the platform committee at the convention.

"We made several surveys covering different periods in the East a few years ago," he said, "and we found that the New Deal vote rose in direct proportion with the amount of relief in the community. The people were grateful for the help they got and gave Roosevelt the credit; they forgot that it was the people's money they were spending. When they are able to pay their own need, they want to be independent. They want to shake off government

Mr. Spangler dld not attempt to argue the case of the Republican party, nor are these columns a place for such a political debate, but anyone can see that he and his staff believe that they share a popular feeling that "the times have changed," "et nos mutamur Illis" fand we are changed with them). Tongues lolled and their big eyes bulged in their sockets. It would take weeks to get back the pounds they had lost in these few hours.

"With divorce breaking up about teh times as many homes as it has a right to do ... who are we to talk of reforming the world!"

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

MERE is a dreadful theory that children's faults and children's traits are put into them to stay. That your selfish small boy may try to conceal it as he grows older, but that he will be a selfish man to the end of his days. That your sneaky or shy or untruthful little girl will presently be a sneaky, shy, untruthful woman, and that nothing you can do for her, or she can do for herself, will make the slightest differ-

A most distinguished scientist enlarged upon this idea one night, at my dinner table. He had written books on the subject, had Dr. Wiggam, and I could pretend to no scientific knowledge at all, yet he was wrong. And when I said that the lazy child could grow up to be prompt and energetic, the quick-tempered child become some day a controlled and amiable woman, and the destructive and disorderly child turn into a capable and juvenile delinquency, illiteracy still thrifty housewife, I was right.

But the professor was taking into account only what he could prove with animal statistics, with references to while mice and black mice and various charts and mans and graphs. And I had stronger forces in mind.

Jealousy and Suspicion Curable. For the truth is, if ere can make a child or young person once face destroy the litanic efforts and saca fault or defect, see it as it is, riflees we must be ready to make and can further interest that child or young person in correcting itwhy, change is the law of grace just complished. One of the most screne and amistic men I know, whose own wife laughs at the idea of Tom's having a temper, was a dangerously passionale and unmanageable child. FAULTY THEORY

Children's faults and traits are not permanent things. The sky or untruthful child need not - and should not - stay that way. Jealousy is curable, so are suspicion, stinginess and the other common faults. These things are cured by conscious determination; by the deliberate seeking of what oldfashioned persons still call "grace." If the new world is to be built on honesty, brotherhood and service to our fellow men, then we must eliminate our personal hates, dishonesties, prejudices and weaknesses. We must remember that the evils which do exist will do whatever possible to destroy the "titanic efforts and sacrifices we must be ready to make for millions less fortunate than ourselves, when they often take the edge off hunger when it's most necessary-after school, or after a meal to give it the finishing touch. Cookies aren't hard to make. They last longer than cakes. They

American Producers Must Make Up for Imports Now Cut Off

In a remote outpost of New Caledonia a sergeant bellows from the door of a mess hut, "Hey, Murphy, how about those vegetables?"

"Coming right up, Sarge!" And Private Murphy moves at a fast clip from the camp garden, laden with fresh vitamins and minerals in the form of sweet corn, tomatoes and string beans for the evening meal.

This scene is not as fantastic as it sounds, even in the middle of a war, according to the War Food administration. It's a fact that Uncle Sam is sending many hundreds of tons of vegetable seeds to all parts of the world with the armed forces. Wherever a permanent camp is set up, and other factors are favorable, fighters who otherwise would get none of the bulky, perishable vegetables are themselves raising the familiar things they know and like with seed from home.

Seeds are so small, compared with the vegetables they produce, that they are an economical method of exporting food via either steamer or airplane. In European countries, for example, as much as five tons of tomatoes can be raised from a single ounce of seed. Rutabagas, another favored vegetable there, will produce as much as $00 pushels from the seed-contained in a pint jar.

The total vegetable supply, through June, 1944, is estimated by the department of agriculture at 391 million pounds. Of the allocable portion, (379,500,000 pounds), 73 per cent or 277 million pounds will go to American farmers, to Victory gardens-of which 22 million are sought this year-and to other civilian consumption. This is a somewhat larger supply than was available in 1943. Some varieties to which gardeners are accustomed may not answer roll call this spring. and there will be a scarcity of cabbage seed, but no U. S. gardener, says WFA, need be without plenty of vegetables.

A total of 3,818,000 pounds, or 1 per cent, will be apportioned to U.S. territories, the Red Cross, friendly nations, etc. U.S. military and war services will receive substantial quantities.

All of these exports and shipments total only 4.8 per cent of the total seed allocation. The remainder of the allocable supply, 84 million per acre for 27 of the seeds and a pounds or 22.2 per cent, will go into what is known as "contingency reserve," a reserve to be used as need
